デザインは一部変更になる場合がございます Satisfaction level analysis

Improvement of the work environment for the stress check does not only look to eliminate stress but also considers enhancing of the employees "satisfaction towards work".

Therefore, based on the results obtained at this time, by analyzing the correlation between question 56 "Satisfied with work" and other 28 categories the requirements to enhance satisfaction towards work were understood.

Calculation Method

[Horizontal axis: Influence] Calculate the correlation coefficient for Q56 "Satisfied with work" and other 28 categories.

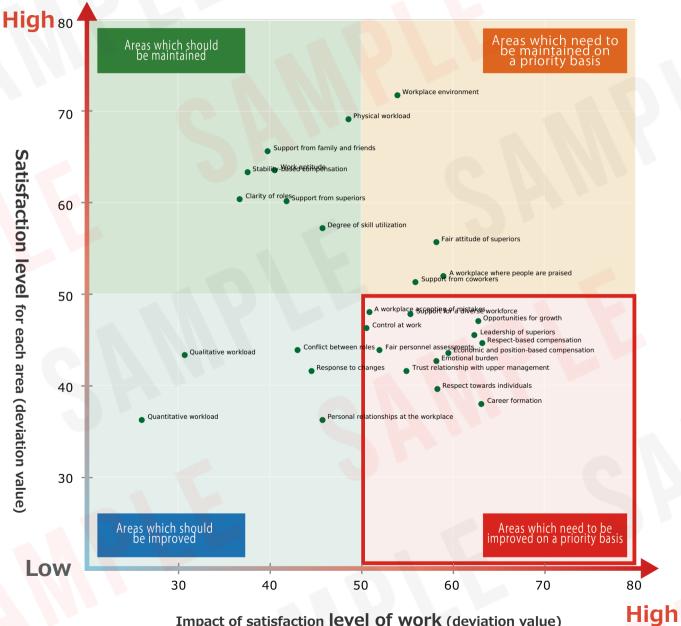

[Vertical axis: Satisfaction] Calculate the ratio of participants giving the best answer for each Item

By doing so, the questions that employees were less satisfied are shown near the bottom and questions necessary to enhance the satisfaction rate of employees are shown near the right. As a result, questions that should be high to enhance "satisfaction towards work" but are not at present are plotted on the bottom right area.

*Correlation analysis was conducted on 28 categories and job satisfaction, excluding stress response and result indicator categories.

Each category is indicated by a mean score ranging from 1.0 to 4.0.

This is the average of the scores from 1.0 to 4.0 for each category as indicated by the response options. In some questions, the scores are reversed, so that higher scores indicate poor scores and lower scores indicate favorable scores. The larger the value, the worse the score and the smaller the value, the better the score. Values that are worse than the national average for each category, calculated from the data of 479,612 people who took the Doctor Trust Stress Check in 2023, are shown in red.

p.1	National average	Data collected from 1,390 companies that implemented Dr. Trust's Stress Check services between April 1, 2023 and March 31, 2024.
p.1	Testing rate	The percentage of people who took the test in relation to the number of people who were eligible to take the test.
p.1	High stress individual	As a result of the Stress Check, those who have high subjective symptoms of stress or a certain level of subjective symptoms, and those who are determined to have significantly poor scores for workload and support from others around you.
p.1	High stress individual rate	The percentage of people who were determined to have high stress compared to the number of people who actually took the test.
p.4	Overall distribution	In addition to the two-stage determination process of whether an individual is a high-stress individual or not, the distribution showed the level of stress in five stages.
p.8	STELLA*	A person who is positive about work and has good communication skills. A physically and mentally healthy person with the potential to have a positive impact on those around them.
p.10	Health risk	This is an indicator set by the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare that expresses the risk of employees of your company taking sick leave. The indicator is calculated based on four criteria: quantitative workload, control at work, support from superiors, and support from coworkers, with 100 as the standard.
p.12	Deviation value	A numerical value that indicates the position of the results among the national average. If the results are the same as the national average, the deviation value is 50. The deviation value shows the characteristics of the company compared to other companies in Japan.
p.16	TRUSTY SCORE* (workplace environment indicator)	Among the stress check results, the communication-related categories were extracted to show the degree of safety, security, and positive environment in the organization.
p.17	Satisfaction level analysis*	Analysis based on the perspective of increasing employees' job satisfaction. Correlation analysis between stress check question 56 "I am satisfied with my job" and other areas can be used to identify areas that need to be improved to increase job satisfaction.
